Welcome to 4-H

The WSU Extension 4-H Youth Development Program reaches over 85,000 young people, age 5-18. It is the largest youth development program in the state of Washington.

The program teaches life skills that lead young people to become self-directed, positive, contributing members of our communities.

Our 4-H members achieve these goals through leadership opportunities, public presentation workshops, judging contests, keeping record books, club work, project work, cross-cultural experiences, service learning, school enrichment, adventure learning, and special interest groups.

The 4-H Pledge:

I PLEDGE...
my HEAD to clearer thinking,
my HEART to greater loyalty,
my HANDS to larger service,
my HEALTH to better living,
for my club, my community, my country, and my world.

Youth come to 4-H with a 'spark', wanting to explore their interests. Our 4-H volunteers support the youth and those interests through high quality 4-H youth development programming. That discovery process happens at club and project meetings, county workshops, and at fair. At the heart of 4-H are relationships forged with 4-H volunteers and other 4-H members. Our 4-H youth are encouraged to expand their possibilities, develop their leadership skills, give back to their communities, and are provided support by caring adults that are committed to positive youth development.

We hope to be partners with you and your family in our 4-H program.
