

Do We Have Moral Autonomy: The Power of Situations, People, and Education

Alfred Mele

Philosophers, scientists, and theologians alike have argued for centuries about moral autonomy. Whether people have free will or whether other forces shape our actions is a debate had by many disciplines. Alfred Mele, a leading researcher and philosopher of conscious decision making and moral autonomy, will discuss the intersection of neuroscience and philosophy.

Alfred Mele is the William H. and Lucyle T. Werkmeister Professor of Philosophy at Florida State University. As a philosopher, he specializes in the philosophy of action, such as the concepts of free-will and autonomy, with numerous publications including A Dialogue of Free Will and Science (2013), Effective Intentions (2009), and Free Will and Luck (2006).

Join us for pizza, pop, and interesting conversation. RSVP to relgar@wsu.edu

Friday, January 24
12 – 1pm
Foley Speaker's Room
308 Bryan Hall