

Vital Circuitry: A Real-Life Flipped Classroom in Vet Med Ed

Daniel Johnson, djjohnson@arizona.edu

This session will focus on how one first-year course at the University of Arizona CVM implements a flipped classroom model. There will first be a brief review of the principles of flipped instruction. The core of the presentation will outline how the course embodies a flipped classroom by presenting sample pre-class homework (videos, instructor-written text, readings, etc.) and in-session activities (knowledge check and application exercises) for one class session. Participants will be provided with links/access to the materials presented in the session.
