

Why Participate?

Washington Swine Information Day features an array of presentations that have been organized to meet the diverse and unique needs of Pacific Northwest swine producers.

The theme for the 2022 Washington Swine Information Day is "Keeping Pork on the Plates". In addition to a day of learning how to protect your pigs' health and marketability, participants will get to feast on a variety of unique and delicious pork dishes prepared by Chef Sammie of Pillar Rock throughout the day –Bring your taste buds!

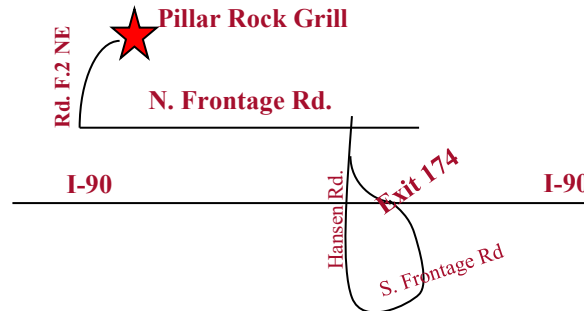

This summer African Swine Fever (ASF) was detected in the Dominican Republic, which puts the swine virus that has created significant global losses, uncomfortably close to US borders and our swine farms. Market access both domestically and internationally could be significantly impacted if we were to get a disease like ASF in the Washington State, or even in the USA.

Regardless of how many pigs you care for, diseases can impact not only the health of your swine herd but also your ability to access markets and market prices; ultimately impacting your profitability and sustainability. It is important for swine farms, shows/fairs and markets to implement protection and prevention measures to keep diseases out of their herd and the USA pig herd. The objectives of Swine Day are to provide pork producers and stakeholders with knowledge and tools to protect their herd and be prepared in the event of a disease outbreak that could impact their access to transport and market pigs.
