- Cherokee came in to see the council and enjoyed her trip in November down in Kentucky. She got to see different ways that horses are trained. One institution which was a veterinary class. One group had a horse with no vaccines and another group that are vaccinated. The ones that were not vaccinated did better than the other group. Her Contest was a lot of sitting but very interesting to see horses that she doesn't get to see at fair. The judges broke down what they are looking for on each horse. Her take away of the contest was to study more of the animals and what we are studying and to learn even more on most breeds. Having the knowledge the judges are looking but also being confident when doing this. She wants to do clinics to help the kids that she has learned through her trip. Her goal is to get more kids from the Grays Harbor County to go to Nationals. She was the 2nd to represent Grays Harbor County in a very long time. She judged 8 classes and gave oral reasons on 4 classes.
