Northwest Junior Sheep Exposition

Moses Lake, Washington

July 10 & 11, 2020

Objective

The Northwest Junior Sheep Exposition (NWJSE) presented by the Washington Junior Lamb Carcass Show (WJLCS) is an educational event offering youth the opportunity to obtain growth and ultrasound carcass results from lambs they exhibit. Participants will learn to select fast gaining lambs that are heavily muscled and properly finished. Participation in this event will lead to a better understanding of the economics related to producing market lambs.

The show provides participants the opportunity to exhibit their skills in showmanship, fitting sheep, judging sheep and wool, and teaches spectators about the sheep industry and sheep husbandry through educational displays.

Participation in the NWJSE is a quality educational experience because exhibitors learn about desirable market traits of meat and wool.

Animal Welfare Policy

The NWJSE supports the humane treatment of all animals. We are committed to:

1. Upholding the welfare of animals as a primary consideration in all activities.
2. Requiring that animals be treated with kindness, respect, and compassion.
3. Ensuring that owners, trainers, and exhibitors use responsible care in handling, transporting, and exhibiting their animals. Animals should never be left unattended on a trimming stand or tied with halters.
4. Providing for the continuous well-being of animals through proper watering, feeding, disease prevention, sanitation, and attention to their safety.
5. Supporting scientific research to improve animal health, safety, and well-being.

Herdsmanship

A herdsmanship committee will ensure that:

1. Exhibitors adhere to the Animal Welfare Policy.
2. Aisles are passable to the public, other contestants, and their animals. Aisles are swept as needed and pens are kept clean.
3. Trimming stands and tack are not stored in the aisle or in pens with sheep.
4. Stall cards must be displayed for all animals by Friday at 2:00 p.m.

Animal Health Product Usage

The NWJSE is committed to producing a safe food product. Therefore, lambs will be disqualified if they show any evidence of the use of unapproved drugs or hormones including tranquilizers, Clenbuterol, and ovine somatotropin. The show reserves the right to use appropriate tests to detect these substances. We recommend that exhibitors receive quality assurance and animal care training in an approved program, such as the, "Youth for the Quality Care of Animals (YQCA), www.yqca.org.

Show History

This show started in 1967 as the Pacific Northwest Lamb Carcass Show. It was jointly organized and sponsored by Washington State University (WSU) Extension, WSU Department of Animal Sciences, Washington Wool Growers Association, and Superior Packing Company. Kittitas County Extension Agent Phil Bloom played a major role in organizing and conducting the show. Open to youth and adult, there was no limit on number of entries. Its purpose was to help youth learn about desirable lamb carcass traits and to provide sheep breeders with carcass data on progeny. In its first year, 33 participants from Oregon and Washington exhibited 100 lambs. The WSU Sheep Day, an educational program for sheep enthusiasts, was held in conjunction with the show.

In the second year of the show, there were 150 entries from 63 exhibitors, with a large decrease in the number of lambs having over 0.3 inches of fat cover. Exhibitors learned the first year that excess fat on their lambs was undesirable. By the third year, participation had increased to nearly 500 lambs, many from Oregon. Two-thirds of the lambs qualified as yield grade 1 or 2.

The show was not held in 1970 or 1971. It resumed in 1972 as a Kittitas County Show. In the mid-1970s, the show was expanded to include several other counties in central Washington. In 1979, it was opened to any youth in the state and given its current name. The show committee expanded eligibility to Idaho and Oregon producers in 1980 and added growth performance to the show index. Kittitas County Extension Agent Doug Warnock was the show coordinator from 1980 until 1996. In 1997, the show was moved to Moses Lake and held in conjunction with the Washington Ram Sale. In 1999, the show name was changed to the Northwest Junior Sheep Exposition (NWJSE).

The NWJSE is governed by a volunteer committee of sheep producers, 4-H leaders, Agricultural Education instructors, Extension agents, and WSU Extension specialists. Financial support for the show comes from the Washington State Sheep Producers, Washington Wool Growers Auxiliary, Columbia Basin Wool Growers, Ken Ardell Foundation, individual sheep breeders, Superior Packing Company, and Washington State Fairs Commission.
