WASHINGTON AGRICULTURE IN THE CLASSROOM

Washington Ag In the Classroom (WAIC) is a school-based education program aimed at enhancing agricultural literacy in K-12 students and educators. It is not a vocational agriculture program and does not promote products or political points of view. WAIC's goal is helping teachers, especially those with little knowledge of agriculture, integrate the study of this vast industry into existing curriculum.

Why Learn About Agriculture? Today's youth are tomorrow's leaders. Agriscience, agribusiness, and production agriculture form the largest industry in America. Environmental issues such as land use, water quality, air quality, and wildlife protection are inextricably linked to agriculture. As future leaders, students must have an understanding of agriculture and how it affects their world.

The Agricultural Literacy Curriculum Matrix is an online, searchable, and standards-based curriculum map. The Matrix contextualizes national education standards in science, social studies, and nutrition education with relevant instructional resources linked to Common Core Standards.

The online classes Content Area Standards are Career & Technical Education, Social Studies, Health/Nutrition, and Science. Learn about spiders, turkeys, cattle, health, gardening, aquaponics and many more subjects to choose from.

You can look at the entire collection at the state web site, www.waic.net. Any of these would make good club meeting additions or be useful for other educational presentations.
