Spring time is finally here! After our long cold winter, it is nice (and important) to get outside and take in the sun and fresh outdoor air. Curious where to go this Spring? Look no further than here in the Palouse! We’ve identified many parks, gardens, and activities for people in the area to get outside and get active. Get some folks together for a walk, for lunch on campus’ many social lawns, or for an impromptu volleyball game! Check out all of these locations:

REANEY PARK:
Home of the National Lentil Festival; as well as a stage for summer concerts and movie nights, a public swimming pool, and a gazebo!

LAWSON GARDENS:
13 acres of gardens: includes a gazebo and reflecting pool surrounded by colorful paintings along terraced lawns and walkways.

PULLMAN PATH:
A pedestrian and bike path along the south fork of the palouse river in downtown Pullman. The loop trail features trail lighting, landscaping, and two bridges spanning the river.

SUNNYSIDE PARK:
25 acres consisting of two ponds connected by a small brook and draped by old willows that are home to turtles and ducks. The large picnic shelter and barbeque grills have views of both ponds. The park includes a tennis court, a disk golf course, pickle ball courts, volleyball standards, and a community garden.

COLFAK TRAIL:
This hiking/walking trail runs adjacent to a large stream, flanked with steep cliffs of basalt columns and a variety of trees. Enjoy views of rolling hills and the flowing stream from a series of resting benches.

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO ARBORETUM AND BOTANICAL GARDEN
With a backdrop of rolling Palouse hills, over these 63 acres of park you can find some 17,000 plants mostly organized into geographical regions such as Europe, Asia, and Eastern and Western North America.

OTHER LOCATIONS:
- Golf/Mini Course
- Kruegel Park
- Pullman Rocks
- Klemgard Park
