INTERAGENCY AGREEMENT - 5
EXHIBIT A
Scope of Work

(To Be Attached)
July 25, 2012

It is my pleasure to write a letter in support of the proposal "Developing adapted varieties and optimal management practices for quinoa in diverse environments", submitted to the NIFA OREI by Dr. Kevin Murphy of Washington State University.

This proposal, which will include the creation of articles, videos, and webinars for http://extension.org, will benefit eOrganic by expanding our research, science and experience based content, and by improving our ability to answer Ask an Expert questions in this area. eOrganic will support the project by providing the group with a workspace and access to webconferencing tools. In addition, we will provide technical support and peer and NOP compliance review for the publication of:

- a webinar describing the project in year 1
- 2 farm case study articles on how specific farms are growing quinoa and incorporating project findings into their production plans (as in http://www.extension.org/pages/18352), including videos (see below) of farmers demonstrating practices
- 3 articles on organic management of quinoa production, quinoa breeding and quinoa markets
- 8 short (1-3 minute) videos on farm or research strategies/tools to be embedded into websites, case studies and articles (eOrganic trains project staff in video capture; eOrganic staff edit, transcribe, manage review, and publish to YouTube)
- a 1-webinar series on quinoa varietal selection for different environments, detailed quinoa agronomy practices, and quinoa processing and marketing
- at least 3 broadcasts of winter trainings: select presentations from winter regional trainings will be broadcast as webinars by eOrganic.
- a moodle-based short course on all aspects of organic quinoa production, culminating in how to develop an OSP related to quinoa agronomy and marketing, utilizing all project information and resources

In conclusion, I fully support the efforts of Dr. Murphy as he seeks funding to support the creation of information related to organic quinoa in collaboration with eOrganic, and improving outreach on this subject to farmers, educators, researchers, and agricultural service providers.

Thank you,

Dr. Alexandra Stone, Lead, eOrganic Community of Practice for eXtension
