II. Scope of Work

Background

Washington State University, Dining Services is looking to renovate the Southside Dining Hall and Market which serves on average of 2,400 students each academic year. The 39,000sf facility, originally constructed in the 1960’s and renovated almost 20 years ago, is showing its age and needs to respond to the current and future needs of the students. Housing and Dining facilities are a key criterion when prospective students are touring college campuses. We received input from students who are looking for a more inclusive environment and healthier options in dining choices.

Southside Dining Hall and the Market are housed in the same facility, and both experience functional and overall space limitations, proving to be a burden on the operations and maintenance of the facilities.

Because of the high volume of output the facility manages, closing the facility for an extended time to complete an overall renovation is not feasible. We are looking for a creative group of designers to evaluate the needs of and prepare phased documents for public procurement over the next five years.

Scope of Services

The selected design firm will begin with a study of the current facility and its existing conditions. Meetings with the management team, maintenance and operations, and student groups will be necessary to understand the goals for the project and plan for the phased approach.
Confirmation of the project's phased approach with the WSU executive group will then allow the design phase to begin. Design is to include all phases of the project with the expectation that phases may or may not be tied to one contractor, requiring phased construction document sets to be bid separately.

It is expected that a food service/market consultant would be necessary during the project. It is not necessary that you provide one in your qualification’s proposal as we would prefer to be part of the selection of this subconsultant, as well as others.
