Doctoral Dissertation Co-Chair
Alex Spradlin – Examining the stress cannabis link across the stress spectrum

Masters Thesis Co-Chair
Emily LaFrance – The effects of aerobic exercise, resistance exercise, and yoga on cognition
Dakota Mauzay – Devils, witches, and psychics: An examination of the relationships between religion, paranormal beliefs, and features of obsessive-compulsive disorder

Doctoral Dissertation Committee Member
Lydia Baxter-Potter – Early life exposure to stress and cannabis effects on stress coping, drug seeking, and prefrontal cortical endocannabinoid signaling in adolescence
Robert Fellows – Differential and combined influence of cognitive, psychiatric, and physical characteristics on functional abilities in older adults
Debra O'Connell – The association between the triarchic model of psychopathy and executive functioning
Kayela Robertson – Naturalistic assessment using a simulated environment: Cognitive correlates and relationship to functional status in those with neurological conditions
Angela Williams – Sex-differences in endocannabinoid regulation of alcohol withdrawal

Master's Thesis Committee Member
Arig Aboulenein – The identification and manipulation of choice representations
Jenna Beaver – The effects of content and non-content memory on the functional ability assessment of older adults
Rachel Braley – Time estimation across the adult lifespan
Amy Nusbaum – The effects of stress on cognitive flexibility
Christa Simon – The impact of cognitive reserve and subjective memory on compensatory strategy use in older adults

Preliminary Committee Member

Debra O'Connell – Sadism and psychopathy

Alex Spradlin – Individual differences in cannabis use
