

Reid Brown is a Senior in the Honors College who is double majoring in Creative Writing and French. She is passionate about languages and cultures, and hopes to pursue a career in which her literary, editorial, and linguistic skills may thrive. She is the fiction and nonfiction editor for the Honors College's literary journal The Palouse Review and a few of her works have been published.