

Cassa Hanon is a technology leader focused on team and leadership development. She works with organizations to build cross-functional collaboration and customer experience design capabilities. Cassa also serves as a course facilitator for executive education through Stanford Graduate School of Business and teaches a class on innovation for the WSU Honors College.

Cassa has enjoyed the variety that a career in technology brings, leading teams at Boeing, Weyerhaeuser, Starbucks, Disney, Oracle and various startups. She holds a Bachelor's degree in Computer Science from Washington State University, an MBA from Pacific Lutheran University, a Master's Certificate in Project Management from George Washington University, and the Stanford GSB LEAD Certificate in Leading Corporate Innovation.