

Shelbie Walker is a sophomore in the Honors College who is majoring in environmental and ecosystem science. She is interested in traveling around the world to pursue her interest in the ocean and natural water resources. In her time in the Honors College, Shelbie hopes to have as much research experience possible, so that she can find what specific parts of environmental science interests her the most. Shelbie is excited to use all of the opportunities that WSU will provide her, but her final goal is to pursue her PH.D in oceanography.
